JOHN CAMERON SWAYZE OF NBC

15 CENTS

GRUESOME KILLINGS IN OUR LIVING ROOMS MUST BE STOPPED

We have a growing son. His Little Life is in the formative stage. Each day brings new thrills and experiences. He does what he sees and hears.

We can keep him away from public theatres, that have resorted to gruesome killings to attract blood-thirsty crowds (as in the old Roman gladiator days) but we cannot keep our son out of our own living room.

These stabbings, shootings, hangings, and killings must be kept out of our homes.

Television is still in the formative stage, the same as our own son. Help us keep television respectable—so we can try and raise a respectable citizen.

This full page ad of appeal is being paid for by one man, but one man is helpless in this undertaking. I need your help.

Write your U.S. Congressman and send me a copy. Let's get the ball rolling to try and stop our children from murdering each other.

13th Precinct Proud of Dave

Acting upon the advice of our new critic, Chub McCarthy, we salute this week a newcomer to television, old tiger Dave Garroway of WNBQ, channel 5.

This Saturday, when you're viewing "Garroway at Large" you'll better understand what critic McCarthy means when he says "everybody gets into the act." It is the kind of show a lot of folks have been waiting for, and for some unknown reason nobody thought it would pan out but Garroway.

WNBQ's studios are jammed with telecameras the night old tiger introduces his gang, Carolyn Gilbert, Connie Russell, Jack Haskell, Betty Chapel and Joe Gallicchio's orchestra. Whereas two cameras are enough for most productions, Garroway has cameramen covering cameramen. Result: it's like watching the show in the studio.

Who is this guy Garroway? Can you blame the figure 13 for his eccentricity? Garroway was born July 13, 1913, at 13 Van Belsen street, 13th precinct, at 1 p.m. (13 o'clock) in Schenectady, N.Y. And he joined NBC in Chicago on black Friday, September 13, 1940.

He drives a 1930 Rolls Royce which he bought for $200 and rebuilt to suit himself—with an outlay of spare parts costing Garroway $1,100. He once was an instructor of astronomy at Harvard, which may or may not account for this esoteric young man's outlook on life and TV.

Garroway entered NBC video through radio. He got into radio because he wrote a book that definitely was NOT a best seller. The book, titled "You Don't Say," was written just after he achieved his B.A. at Washington University. He spent two futile years trying to peddle it in Boston before he finally gave up, went to New York and signed as a page boy with NBC.

Within six weeks he was a guide. Later he signed for announcer's school, where he studied for seven months, proving such a good pupil his instructor recommended him to KDKA, Pittsburgh. His assignment at the Pittsburgh station finally gave him a chance to palm off his book on an unsuspecting public. He started a quiz show in which the winner got $5 and all other contestants a copy of the book. He got rid of 21,000 copies in two years.

During the war Garroway served three years in the Navy, spending some time on a minesweeper, and ending up a lieutenant. When he returned to NBC he became a disc jockey, his sophisticated chatter and ad libbing attracting even the great Tallula Bankhead.

Garroway is six feet one, weighs 190, has brown hair and eyes, and comes from a long line of American stock. He fancies bow ties, heavy shell-rimmed glasses, weird sports clothes, and prefers winding up a TV show by walking barefooted off the set.

Elsewhere in this issue you'll find a story on Carolyn Gilbert, a "Garroway at Large" star whose versatility ranges from playing church organ music to singing low down blues. For a thumbnail sketch, turn to page 11.

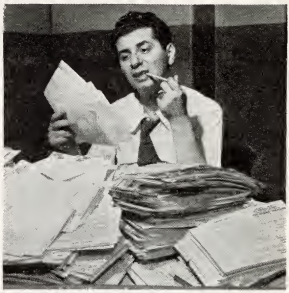
TV a New Thing?

This year Dr. Allen B. DuMont, television pioneer, observes his tenth year as a telecaster. DuMont's first 20 inch tube, made in 1938, is still in use in the home of Dr. Thomas T. Goldsmith, director of research of DuMont Laboratories.

"Let's Have Fun" With Hank Grant



Hank Grant, comic emcee, and pianist Dorothy Harlan will appear in "Let's Have Fun" in a special Memorial Day simulcast Monday, May 30, at 12 noon from WGN-TV's studio one.

The program usually originates at Goldblatt's auditorium. In addition to surprise guest stars, Louis and Joel Goldblatt will appear on the program. Holland Engle announces.

Girls' League Games To Provide TV Thrills

WENR-TV will telecast the season's games to be played by the National Girls' Professional league from Shrewbridge field, beginning Saturday, May 28.

For 15 weeks, the games will be telecast, beginning at 9 p.m. to conclusion.

The league consists of such teams as the Bloomer Girls, the Music Maids, etc., which last season attracted more than half a million fans. Wayne Griffin and Vince Garrity will announce the games.

Next: Gene Sarazen

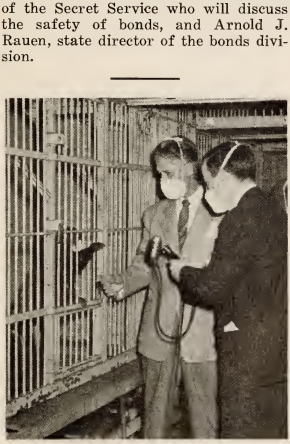
Ed Sullivan, CBS emcee of "Toast of the Town" will present Gene Sarazen as his golf guest Sunday, May 29 on WGN-TV, channel 9.

Jazz Concert to Aid U.S. Bond Campaign

The first jazz concert to be televised in the midwest will be seen on WBKB, Wednesday, June 1, when the Treasury Saving Bonds Show, under the promotional direction of Milt Wolf, will devote its half hour to jazz.

On hand will be "Chet Roble and His Barefoot Bunch," consisting of Danny Alvin, at the drums; Sammy Aron at bass; Boyce Brown at saxophone; Jack Ivan at cornet; Jimmy James at trombone; Bob MacCracken at clarinet and Christine Randol at piano. The regular staff orchestra, under the direction of MacGerard, will also be among those present, and the cast will be augmented by the Teletones.

Special guests will be Dave Garroway, TV personality, disc jockey and master of jazz; Harry Anheier, chief of the Secret Service who will discuss the safety of bonds, and Arnold J. Rauen, state director of the bonds division.



TV PIX OF THE WEEK—Surgical masks were worn by all present to "protect the health of the monkeys" when Jim Hurlbut, NBC reporter and R. Marlin Perkins, Lincoln Park zoo director, interviewed some of the animals on a special video show.

WBKB's Alice Nelson Has Fun Living— Her Household Ideas Reflect This

Alice Nelson, charming femcee of WBKB's popular "Fun With Furnishings," looked up from the model house which she uses for demonstration purposes on the show, and dimpled prettily.

"You know," she said, her blue eyes twinkling, "I really think my favorite quotation is a most appropriate one for this thing called television. It goes like this and is from Ogden Nash: 'Whoever did it shouldn't a done it, because I know this business backwards and that's the way I intend to run it.' "

Not that Alice dislikes television. She, like thousands of others, believes it's here to stay, but in the meantime there's no law against being confused, especially over an infant industry which is getting too big to remain in a cradle any longer.

Miss Nelson recently started her show over WBKB and it has met with enthusiastic response from housewives to whom it is directed. Each week she discusses a household problem and the best ways of solving it at a reasonable cost and a minimum of effort.

Miss Nelson has an impressive background which well qualifies her for the role she portrays on "Fun With Furnishings." She is home furnishings editor of the Chicago Sun-Times; home furnishings editor of the Small Homes Guide, a bi-annual publication; associate editor of the Interior Design and Decoration, and director of public relations for United Wallpaper, Inc.

A graduate in liberal arts from Northwestern University and Teacher's college, she started her career as fashion editor of the Chicago Daily News in 1939.

"Fun With Furnishings" may be seen Tuesday on WBKB at 8:30 p.m.

WHO SAID THAT? Saturday night, May 28 you'll meet John Cameron Swayze, regular NBC guest on Crosley's quiz show telecast in Chicago via WNBQ. Swayze demonstrates his microfilm mind each week by outguessing even the guest experts questioned by host Bob Trout. By far one of the better quiz shows.

Howdy Pardners! Join This New Western Club

By PATRICIA COOPER

Here's a chance for television to take away the pain of radio westerns where the English language is murdered beyond description.

WGN-TV's new "Oky Doky Ranch" program should answer the natural craving some youngsters have to be cowboys. Burt Hilber and the Ranch Gang on this show want Chicago boys and girls to be "cowpunchers" or members of this new show.

It's easy, and it's fun. To start your own Oky Doky Ranch club, boys and girls should write to Oky Doky Ranch, % DuMont Television, 515 Madison, New York 22, N.Y.

Meetings should be held on Tuesdays or Thursdays. The place in which you meet can be called the "Ranch House." At the first meeting, officers should be elected. You'll need a Foreman, Corral Boss and Cowhand.

The Foreman is president, and calls the meeting together and reminds all cowpunchers to watch this new TV show on channel 9. The Corral Boss is the vice-president, who has a very important job because he arranges chairs at every meeting in a big circle to form the "corral." He also makes sure that all the rules of the Ranch club are followed, and if the Foreman can't be at a meeting—maybe he's taking piano lessons—the Corral Boss takes his place.

The Cowhand is the secretary. He makes out meeting lists, takes attendance, and collects dues of one penny at every get-together. This money will be used for parties and lots of fun later on.

More lowdown on club doings will be given by Burt.

Clem McCarthy, Dean of Turf Reporters Talks to Himself, Horses & TViewers

This week, if you could visit Belmont Race Track with us, you'd find a white-haired gentleman carrying 20 pounds of equipment into the New York race track clubhouse and taking his stand in the lee of the judges' booth.

From the leather cases he is carrying, he extracts a heavy photographer's tripod and a pair of 20-power field glasses, now and then fumbling with his equipment, occasionally talking to himself: "Now watch it, McCarthy; don't go messing up the works."

The white-haired gentleman is Clem McCarthy, who will be seen the rest of May at Belmont, next month from Aqueduct, as he covers racing for WNBQ, NBC television.

McCarthy's day at the races begins in the morning. Arriving in a black derby hat, he usually spends a great deal of time chatting with trainers, owners, grooms and riders. Our Gal Friday reports he also has a few words with the horses, too, for his knowledge of their records and genealogies is somewhat amazing.

Over 70 years old, McCarthy is the son of an Irish horse auctioneer and dealer. His early ambitions, naturally enough, were to become a jockey, but Clem outgrew bangtail weight before he could boot home a Kentucky Derby winner, and next tried his hand at handicapping.

His first microphone experience came in 1928 when he was asked to call the races at Arlington Park, Chicago. Since then he's been a favorite, handling the classic Derby 13 times.

When you hear "Ehhrrraaa-cing fans—theyroof!" you know it's Clem McCarthy.

CLEM McCARTHY

Gordon Joins DuMont

Max Gordon, one of Broadway's most famous theatrical producers, joined the DuMont television network, it was announced this week.

Mr. Gordon, who has been associated with many of the most famous and successful shows on Broadway, will be a program consultant. His current hit production is "Born Yesterday."

Firemen Scoop Turner As Ulmer Gulps Hard

Driving into the city recently, WBKB news editor Ulmer Turner met his community fire engine barreling at a fast clip to a fire. The men waved at Turner, who is well acquainted with most of the city's fire fighters, and Turner, in a jovial mood, waved back. The gaiety was short-lived, however. When Turner pulled up in front of his apartment he found the engine parked there, putting out a blaze in his short-wave laboratory!

Music and Pattern

To make dull test pattern time more interesting, TV station WBKB has added the feature of public service transcription programs to the audio portion of test pattern. These shows include: Monday, United States Navy Band; Tuesday, Guest Star Series—United States Treasury; Wednesday, Voice of the Army; Thursday, Here's To Veterans; and Friday, United States Marine Band. They are heard every weekday at 5 P.M. CDST.

Eddie & Fannie Begin New Career on Video

Plump Fannie and diminutive Eddie Cavanaugh, former radio reporters who date back to the days when Bing Crosby had a full head of hair and Martha Raye was six years old, are now being seen on WBKB, channel 4.

This week, when you watch the Cavanaughs go "Window Shopping" in Chicago you might notice—as we did—the slight uneasiness about performing on video, peeking now and then at the director, carefully watching the movement of the cameramen. For people who have spent years on radio it is a natural reaction.

The Cavanaughs began their long careers on KYW in 1922. A few years later they originated a gossip club which is still heard on WAIT. Working for Balaban & Katz, however, is not new for they did their gossip show from their own special studio in the Chicago theater for more than 14 years.

"Window Shopping" turns up novel items to be found in Chicago shops, with Eddie and Fannie wearing or demonstrating the sponsor's wares.

MYRON WALLACE, who portrays the role of Lt. Anthony Kidd on WENR-TV's "Stand By for Crime" is a boating enthusiast who believes in keeping his brass polished. You can see Wallace this Saturday at 7 p.m.

Normal People, Too Like Gilbert Satire

Mark us down as fans of Carolyn Gilbert.

This week, even if you have to stay in the city and miss a weekend at your lakeside cottage it's worth it to watch the satir-antics of La Gilbert. There is no one else in Chicago like her.

CAROLYN GILBERT

As a star on "Garroway at Large," (WNBQ, channel 5) Gilbert is at her best imitating others, especially the kind of people you find at a party. That's one routine we'd never tire of seeing. A few minutes later she can twist your heart out singing low down blues, using TV to her best advantage.

One of the most indefatigable performers, Carolyn Gilbert started her career at the age of four, thumping the ivories before the public. During her high school years she had four years of classical piano and voice, studied ballet and picked up organ and vibraharp techniques on the side.

Born July 13, 1916 in Rolla, Mo., Carolyn in a few years has jumped rapidly in show business. In TV she is finding an audience better able to judge her performance. In "Garroway at Large," she has the vehicle to reach them.

Sports Calendar

The Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees will be seen in two night games this week as WGN-TV presents its exclusive Comiskey Park telecasts on Wednesday, June 1, and Friday, June 3, both starting at 8:30 p.m. The Sox will also be seen on WGN-TV in a double header against Detroit on the afternoon of May 30 (Memorial Day), in a single game against the Yankees on Thursday, June 2, and versus Washington on Saturday, June 4.

On Production List

On the production list of Jackie and Eddie Hubbard are a new TV show, a new radio show, and—a baby, expected in September. Eddie was seen and heard recently on WENR-TV.

LAMBS GAMBOL brings Chicagoans smack into a heretofore exclusive actor's club in New York, where masquerading (above) is in order. See it on WNBQ, channel 5, Sunday, May 29.

Receptionist Breaks Into Television

Bonnie Pritchett, attractive 21-year-old WGN receptionist, recently made her television debut in a convincing portrayal of a 50-year-old woman on WGN - TV's "Chicagoland Mystery Players."

Just three months ago Bonnie broke into the radio dramatic field when Kirby Hawkes, writer-director of WGN-Mutual's "Captain Midnight," cast her as a sinister villainess with a foreign accent. A routine TV audition netted Bonnie her first video role almost immediately.

Although a newcomer to professional dramatics, Bonnie's talents were first recognized when she won the Loyola University play festival medal in 1946. She was given the Loretta Woodlawn Academy "outstanding award for highest dramatic achievement" and a dramatic scholarship to Mundelein college.

GETTING IN

The Last Word

By CHUB McCARTHY

Last week a few eastern turkeys didn't like what I had to say about their brand of television. Thought old ironsides McCarthy got up on the wrong side of the bed the day he wrote the piece.

As usual, they were wrong, and the sooner New Yawkers discover they don't know everything about the TV taste of the public—including Chicagoans and my mother-in-law—the better off video will be.

It's so easy to lay an egg on television. Take a show like "Preview," with Tex and Jinx McCrary. Jinx has long been one of my favorite cuties. On radio she has always been fun; on TV she's even more of a pleasure. But husband Tex, a nice guy personally, is so cool that many times the whole show bogs down and you feel like turning to another channel to watch Hopalong shoot it out with some other western yokel.

"Preview" has the makings of a good show, and we'd hate to see it disappear from the network just because some director or producer hasn't enough imagination to tighten it up, cut out some of the gingerbread techniques and paint a smile on old man McCrary's face. McCrary and Ed Sullivan, without argument, tie for the title of Mr. Longpan.

We were watching "Preview" Monday night when our good friend, Scotty MacLaughlin, dropped in. He's a gay young blade, typifying our present generation of televiewers who love the finer things in life. Says MacLaughlin to McCarthy, "Can't you do something about this?" He suggested Tex take a few lessons from laughing boy Morey Amsterdam, that people like to see other people smile.

And he's probably right. When you watch television you want to forget everything, including the day's quota of sad faces.

So there, Johnny, "wrap it up!"
